The house chef is the focus of social gatherings in this Japanese-style home. Ingrid Waltham reports.

A striking red blade wall and timber slats offer the first hint at the Geisha, a display home by Summit Homes in the Bletchley Park estate in Southern River.

Inside, the oriental theme continues with clean, sharp lines, well-defined spaces and sleek finishes such as stone, glass, stainless steel and aluminium wall cladding.

The Geisha has been created for pure entertaining pleasure, with the kitchen the undoubted hero. Designed to make the home chef the focus of any social gathering, it centres on a wide island with benchtops at varying heights.

Set into the island are two side-by-side ovens and a 900mm Ariston six-burner gas cooktop.

Bedrooms are well zoned, with the main suite at the front of the home, and three minor bedrooms in their own zone with the family bathroom and laundry.

From the kitchen, a viewing window connects with a children's activity room, which has access to the alfresco area.

Variations of the Geisha are available from $199,530 (Perth metro) and $199,900 (South West).
